01 MESSAGE FROM

At Santander, we share a common culture, The Santander Way. This sets out our purpose – to help people and business prosper; our aim -to be the best open financial services platform; and the way we do everything to be Simple, Personal and Fair. Underpinning this is a robust culture of risk management and compliance (“Risk Pro”) and by corporate behaviours (“TEAMS”).

This General Code of Conduct contributes to our culture. It sets out how we should act and behave towards everyone we encounter through our work.

Being honest, transparent and ethical is everyone’s responsibility, and is the bedrock of a bank one can trust. We must therefore:

- Know and follow internal and external regulation, so as to benefit our customers, shareholders, companies and the Group.
- Report anything that is not as it should be, so that it can be corrected, we can learn from our mistakes, and Santander can remain the highly trusted bank we have always been.

The world has changed a great deal in recent years — and so has Santander, in order to keep our customers’ loyalty and remain a company of which we can all be proud. If we believe in and abide by our strong corporate culture every day, it will empower us to drive our transformation and be a leader in responsible banking.

I’m counting on you. Your conduct matters.

Ana Botín

02

OUR CORPORATE CULTURE

- To be a Simple, Personal, and Fair bank, our corporate behaviors are summed up in the word TEAMS, which serves as a guide for how everyone should act and behave:

- T Think Customer: I care about our customers, so I go the extra mile to earn their trust and loyalty.
- E Embrace Change: I embrace new challenges and I see new ways of doing things as an opportunity to grow.
- A Act Now: I take accountability and manage risks accordingly, always keeping things simple.
- M Move Together: I seek opportunities to promote collaboration and work together to achieve common goals.
- S Speak Up: I feel free to raise any idea, ask any question or escalate any issues or risks, building an environment of respect and trust. I am comfortable sharing and receiving feedback.

We also have our own way of managing risks through the Risk Pro platform, a shared, attentive, and robust management system in which the entire team participates – from store employees to the Board of Directors.

The Santander Way is the cornerstone to creating a more responsible bank.

A TOOL FOR YOUR DAY TO DAY

COMEÇA
AGORA

*You are a representative for the Santander Group.
Your behavior is what makes us a Simple, Personal, and Fair bank that we are working for day after day.*

3.1 What is the Code of Conduct?

This document describes the behaviors and standards of conduct that must be followed by everyone who is part of the Santander Group.

To build a fair and ethical company, it is essential that we behave in an exemplary manner. This Code is a dependable instrument to help you during your journey towards growth and transformation in the business world – and society at large. It works as a tool to prevent various risks, including criminal ones, to which Santander and its employees are exposed.

To learn more, please refer to the Criminal Risk Prevention Policy - Corporate Defense \(160624\).

3.2 Who must follow it?

The Code of Conduct applies to everyone: employees, members of senior management, and members of governance bodies overseeing the companies that make up the Santander Group. However, this does not exempt you from complying with the codes of conduct specific to your activity.

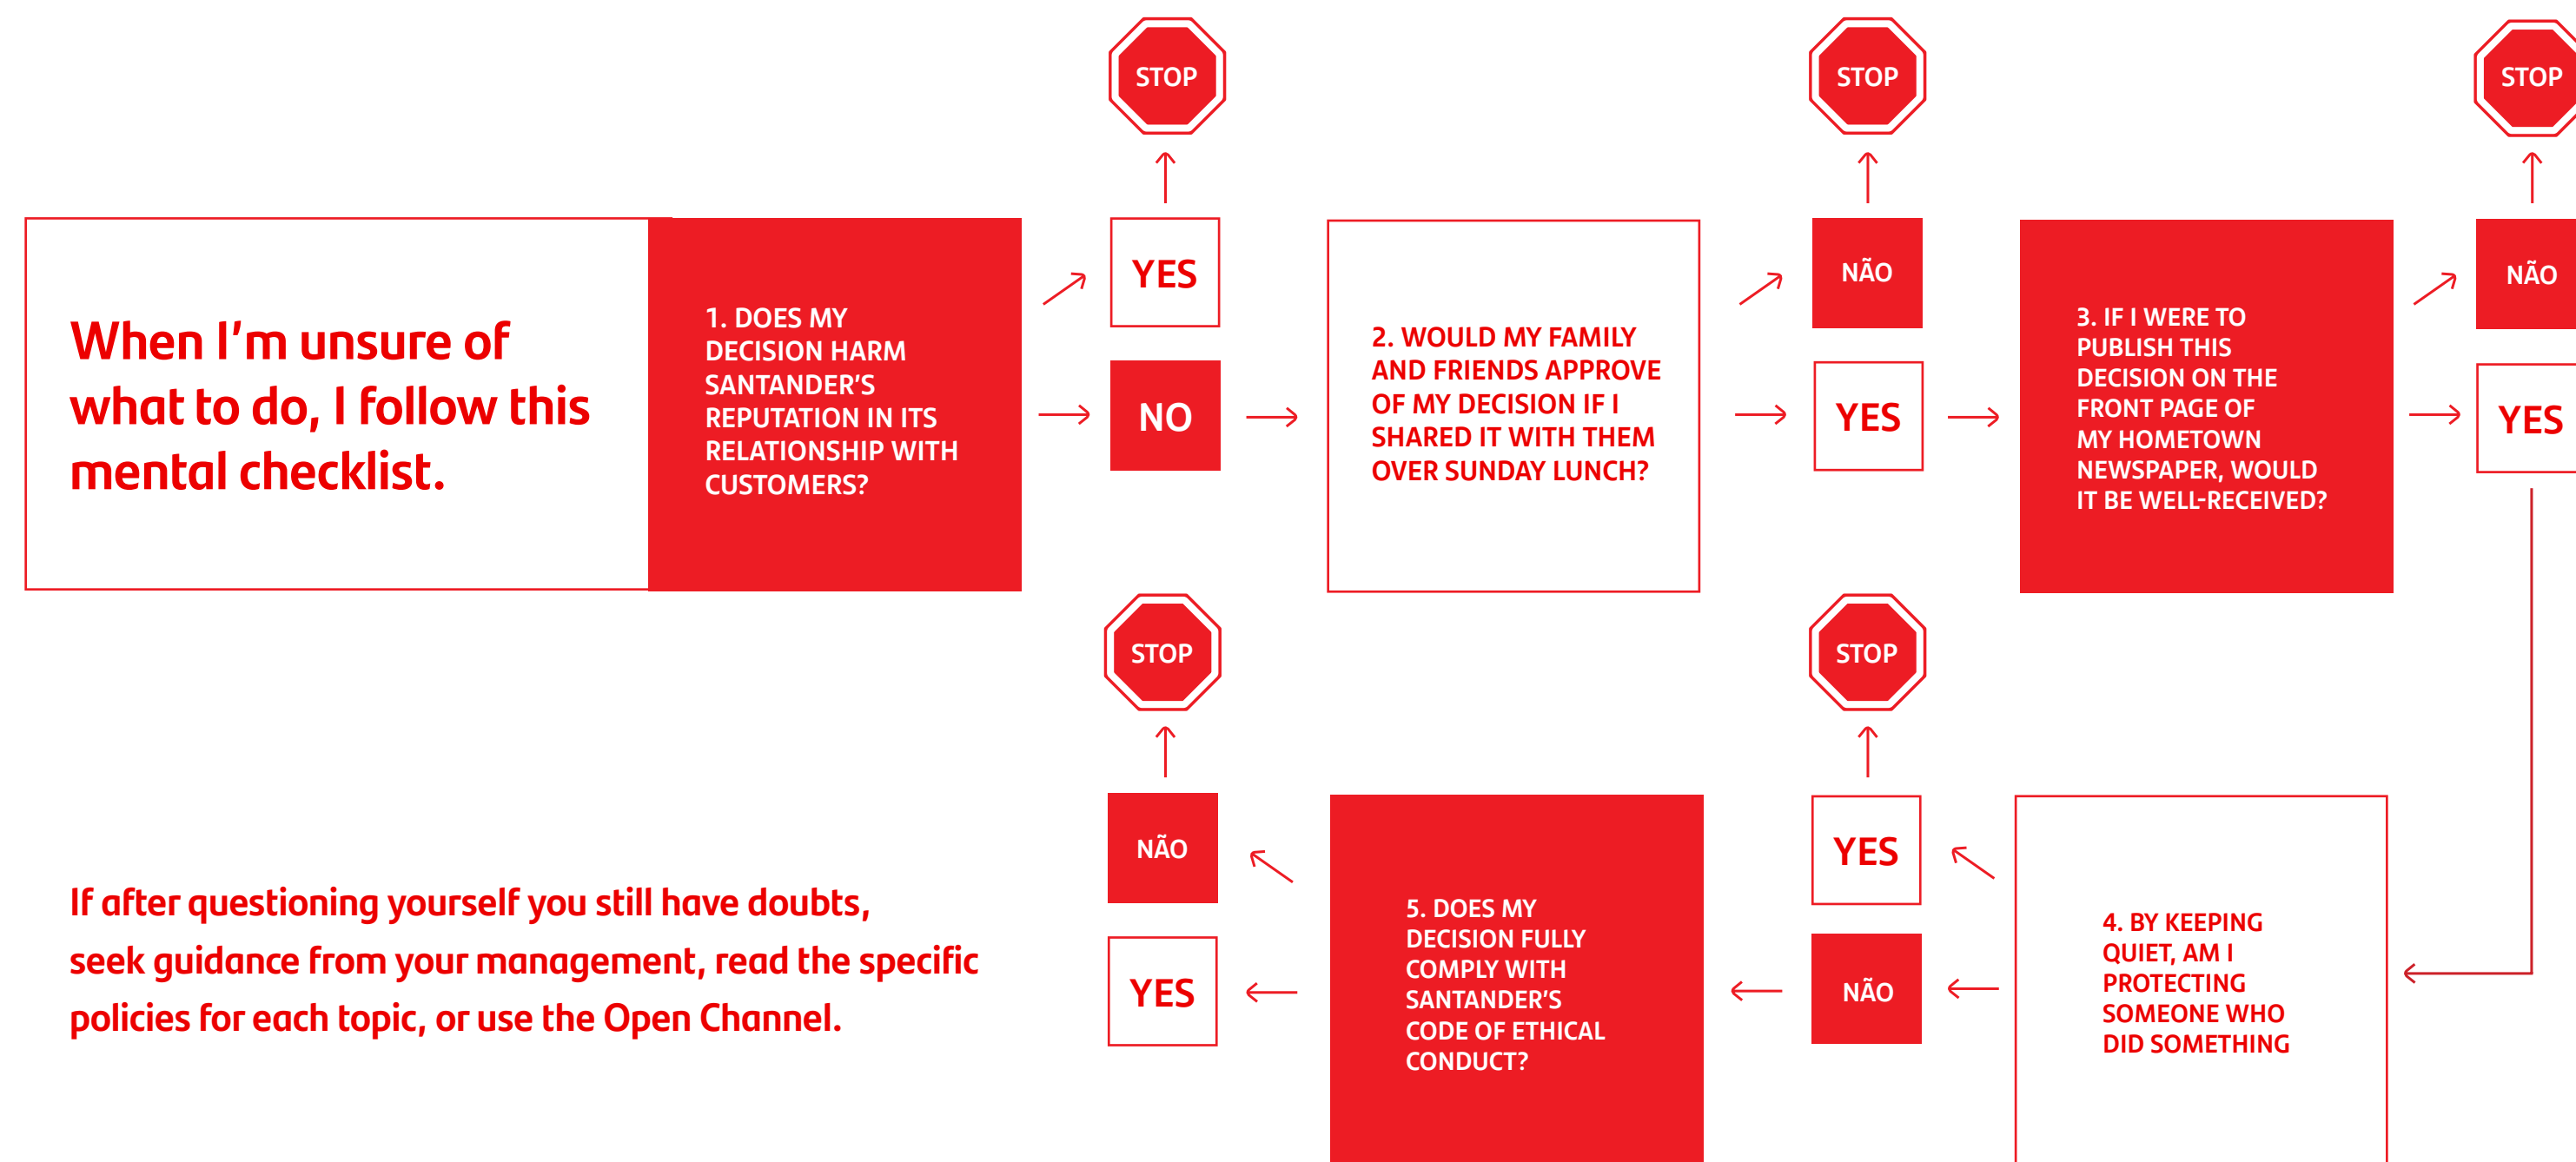

03 A TOOL FOR YOUR DAY TO DAY

3.3 What happens if it is breached?

Failure to comply with any obligation stipulated in this document, or the regulations derived from this Code, may result in disciplinary actions, in addition to criminal and administrative sanctions.

In your day-to-day work, you may encounter situations that raise doubts about certain behaviors. That is why, in addition to this Code, you can rely on the Compliance department.

If you detect any breaches or irregularities, notify the manager of your department or directly contact the VP of People. You also have the Open Channel at your disposal.

WE COUNT
ON YOUR COMMITMENT

Our customers trust the Santander Group because we trust you.

4.1 Principles that guide your behavior

As an employee of the Santander Group, make sure you have the necessary knowledge and are aware of the responsibilities required by your position. Perform your work with impartiality, judgment, and diligence.

You are a Santander flame, which is why it is important that you commit to and pay close attention to the following:

The commitment to social and corporate responsibility undertaken by the Santander Group – such as the initiatives within the Be Healthy program – fosters the improvement of the quality of life of our professionals and their families.

We strive for a safe work environment that is compatible with personal development while helping professionals to balance, as best as possible, their work commitments with their personal and family lives.

We also believe that health and safety are crucial to building a safe and comfortable workplace.

We promote open, transparent, and constructive dialogue with employee representation organizations to strengthen relationships with our staff.

Comply with both internal and external regulations that directly affect your activities.	Be impartial and act with honesty and, as defined in this Code of Conduct, do not engage in any illegal or unethical behavior.	Inform, as soon as possible, your manager and the People and Compliance departments if you are involved in criminal or administrative proceedings initiated by authorities or regulatory bodies overseeing the operations of our companies. You must inform them of this whether you are the alleged perpetrator, a witness, or even if your participation is unrelated to your professional activity.
Always act to protect the interests of the company and customers, refraining from personally benefiting from any business opportunities associated with the Santander Group.	Inform your manager and the People and Compliance departments if you engage in any other professional activity, whether as a self-employed worker or for a non-competing entity, if there is any potential conflict of interest.	Prioritize the work you do for Santander and refrain from providing professional services – whether paid or unpaid – to competitors, regardless of the nature of your relationship with them. If you wish to provide such services, you must obtain specific authorization from your manager and the People and Compliance departments.
Take care of the resources made available to you.	Respect internal procedures, particularly those pertaining to the exercise of competencies and the application of risk limits.	When conducting transactions on behalf of Santander, keep in mind both external and internal regulations, as well as the rules and fees that determine the prices and conditions applicable to the products and services we sell.
Respect the right to organize, the collective bargaining, and the freedom of association.	Participate in professional development training – both mandatory or information sessions.	Follow workplace safety and hygiene rules to prevent and minimize occupational risks. This is a way of looking after not only yourself, but your colleagues as well.

WE COUNT ON YOUR COMMITMENT

Santander complies with applicable Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) regulations and contributes to several of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals. As a Santander Group professional, we need you to fulfil these commitments, applying our corporate behaviors (T.E.A.M.S.) and employing Risk Pro as fundamental components of the Santander Way. Open Channel is accessible to all employees, suppliers, customers, shareholders, or any third parties associated with the Santander Group.

Failure to adhere to our Code of Conduct leads to internal penalties, termination, or even legal action. Do not be deceived: there are no shortcuts. In the past, we have had cases where employees, for example, received funds related to credit operations – a practice that is strictly forbidden – or enabled the Santander ID of customers on their own personal mobile devices. Regardless of the reason, no matter how good the intention may be, never take the wrong path.

05 OPEN CHANNEL. WE LISTEN TO YOU

*We want you to speak up,
as it builds trust and teams.*

5.1 What is it and how does it work?

We uphold an open and honest work culture. Our aim is to foster an ethical, responsible, and transparent environment.

To ensure individuals feel comfortable expressing themselves openly and safely, we rely on Open Channel. This platform is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to receive reports, complaints, suggestions, and allegations via an electronic form accessible through NOW or by email at canalaberto@santander.com.br.

All communications are received and channeled to the Compliance department, ensuring the confidentiality and anonymity of those who reach out, with retaliation, discrimination, or any other unfair treatment of whistleblowers strictly prohibited.

Through Open Channel, it is possible to report:

- A suspected criminal offense.
- A suspected breach of the General Code of Conduct.
- A suspected breach of internal or external regulations (including anti-money laundering and counter-terrorist financing regulations).
- Financial and accounting irregularities.
- Serious or grave criminal or administrative offenses.
- Potential breaches of our corporate behaviors.

05 OPEN CHANNEL. WE LISTEN TO YOU

Open Channel can be accessed by any employee, supplier, customer, shareholder, or third party associated with the Santander Group.

It is prohibited to make threats or retaliate against anyone who has filed a report. This does not exclude the possibility of disciplinary measures being taken if an internal investigation concludes that the report was filed with malicious intent or in bad faith.

In the management and handling of communications received through Open Channel, the rights and guarantees of the individuals involved are preserved.

If you know, suspect, or believe there is any conduct that could compromise our reputation as an ethical, responsible, and fair company, raise your hand and speak up.

For further information, please refer to the Santander Open Channel Procedure \(157275\).

I would feel more comfortable reporting the situation in person. Is that possible?

Yes. Through the Compliance department, it is possible to request an in-person meeting with those in charge of Open Channel, while maintaining the same confidentiality guarantees.

I'm not sure if what I've witnessed constitutes a situation that should be communicated through Open Channel. What should I do?

Go to Open Channel and report it anyway, even if it is merely a suspicion.

Can my report be filed anonymously?

You can, but Open Channel has been so efficient and discreet that most of the reports received have identification.

06

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

More than just a set of rules, this Code is part of our Culture.

6.1 Your relationship with your colleagues

6.1.1

We offer equal opportunities and do not discriminate

We hire professionals based on their talent, training, skills, and experience. Personal achievement and merit are the only factors that influence our decision. When you are involved in a selection, recruitment, or promotion process, be guided by the principle of equal opportunities.

It is prohibited to discriminate based on sexual orientation or gender identity, race, religion and beliefs, political ideologies, membership or non-membership in unions, disability, place of origin, age, language, marital status, social status, or any other personal characteristics.

When making decisions, be objective, tolerant, and promote diversity: make sure that your only goal is to find the right person for the right position.

We do not offer jobs or employment contracts to authorities or public officials involved (or who have recently been involved) in matters that directly affect our interests.

06

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

6.1.2

An inclusive and respectful work environment

We want to ensure that the Santander Group is a safe place to work, an environment where everyone can be themselves while enjoying the same opportunities.

We do not tolerate our employees, suppliers, or customers being discriminated against based on their sexual orientation or gender identity, race, religion and beliefs, political ideologies, union membership or non-membership, disability, place of origin, age, language, marital or social status. Therefore, comments or actions that undermine our culture of respect will not be tolerated. We expect you to be tolerant and set an example.

Any form of abuse, intimidation, harassment (whether moral or sexual), disrespect, or attitude that undermines the dignity of professionals affiliated with us is prohibited, especially negative behaviors toward visible or invisible personal characteristics.

Should you witness or experience any of these situations in the workplace, report it immediately. Access the Open Channel or speak directly to your manager (if possible), as well as the Compliance and/or People departments.

How to avoid conflicts of interest with friends and family

- Do not participate in any transactions conducted by our entities in which you or any individual associated with you holds a vested interest.
- Do not take part in or influence procedures involving the purchase of products or services from companies or individuals with whom you have financial or personal ties.
- Do not provide preferential treatment or special working conditions to individuals with whom you have a friendship, family ties, or financial connections.
- Do not influence any hiring processes, promotions, or improvements in working conditions involving a family member or friend.

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

To prevent potential conflicts of interest with other Group employees with whom we have a family relationship, please note that:

- If you are hierarchically or functionally directly dependent on an immediate family member or other relative, we will transfer one of you to another unit within one year. We will take the same action if you have an indirect hierarchical dependency with an immediate family member.
- If the reporting, hierarchical or functional, to other relative is indirect, your case will be analysed by the Compliance and HR functions to ensure that there are no potential conflicts of interest. We will take the same action when you have an indirect functional dependency with an immediate family member.
- If you belong to the Promontorio, Faro or Solaruco corporate segment, your family links will be analysed on a case-by-case basis by the Compliance and HR functions, even if you do not have a hierarchical/functional dependency with those family members.

What do we mean by family member?

Immediate family members are your spouse or person in a similar relationship, your parents, your children, your siblings, your grandparents and their partners. Other relatives for the purposes of this Code are your aunts, uncles, nephews, nieces, cousins and their partners.

What do we mean by friendship?

It refers to close friendships with any senior management member that could give rise to favoritism.

In addition, if you have a family relationship with a member of Grupo Santander's senior management whose ability to influence your employment situation is significant, it is necessary to inform by both parties this situation to the employee's manager, Compliance & Conduct and Human Resources, as this will help ensure that the processes for hiring, promotion or improvement of working conditions (including salaries) are meritbased and free of conflict of interest.

6.2 Your relationship with Santander

How to avoid conflicts of interest with Santander

You can purchase the products or services that we offer under regular market conditions or in accordance with the terms established for employees.

You cannot purchase or lease, either directly or through individuals with whom you have ties, assets or goods from the Santander Group or vice versa. In other words, Santander cannot purchase or lease assets or goods belonging to you or individuals with whom you have ties, nor can you engage in these transactions directly with Santander. However, there are two exceptions to this rule:

- When they are purchased or leased through a public offering; or
- When authorized by the Compliance and People departments.

In these instances, the transactions will be supervised to ensure transparency and equality for all stakeholders. The objective is to guarantee that negotiations occur under market conditions and without conflicts of interest or the use of insider information.

If you are interested in investing in a business in which we have a stake in the capital, a direct stake (co-investment), or even in a business in which we no longer hold a stake, it will be necessary to obtain prior authorization from your manager and the Compliance department. This authorization will be granted when it has been confirmed that there is no conflict of interest, both now and in the future. You should refrain from initiating the investment process until you have obtained both authorizations in writing.

Read more about this topic in the Conflict of Interest Policy \(160634\).

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

6.2.2

How to process confidential information and personal data

All information that we have not made public must be treated as completely confidential. It is imperative to protect the privacy of any personal information to which you have access in the course of your work or because of it. This also applies even if you stop working at Santander.

You must only use such information and personal data in the fulfillment of your duties. Use only the strictly necessary data and information. Make sure you have the authorization to do so.

When dealing with personal data, make sure that the necessary technical and organizational measures have been taken to ensure the proper level of security at all times. For further information, please refer to the Institutional Policy for Personal Data Protection \(163186\).

- Do not share personal data with third parties unless there is a legal basis for doing so.
- Never use the information to which you have access due to your duties for personal or third-party benefit.

A regrettable instance: a young professional, who incidentally possessed remarkable talent, attempted to irregularly obtain customer data. However, the controls in place are becoming increasingly strict and safe... Just as the act was nearing completion, he was caught in the act and arrested by the police.

If a judicial body, the public administration, or any other competent authority requests information, imposes an embargo, or blocks customer positions, provide only the data that has been requested. If you have any questions, please contact the Compliance department.

Your conduct in front of the media and public appearances

Do not share information, remarks, or rumors about us or any third parties publicly.

Refer journalists and media inquiries to the Communications department.

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

If you have been invited to deliver a speech or are contemplating an interview on topics related to our corporate objective or your professional role within our organization, you must first request authorization from your manager, as well as the Compliance and Communication departments.

When participating in public forums, social media, or similar platforms, exercise caution when sharing your personal opinions on topics that may be politically or ideologically biased, at the risk of compromising the neutrality of the Santander Group. Refrain from emphasizing your status as a Group professional, making it explicitly clear that you are speaking on your own behalf.

Access the Corporate Communications Policy \(160711\).

6.2.4 Your conduct in the securities market

If you engage in personal transactions on financial markets (including securities and financial instruments), bear in mind the special rules that may apply to you in the Code of Conduct in Securities Markets - CCSM \(157034\). Even if you are not subject to the Code of Conduct in Securities Markets, you must comply with our principles at all times:

- Do not participate in transactions with immediate gains or speculative profit – or that require, due to risk or volatility, continuous monitoring that may interfere with your work.

- Check with the Regulatory and Reputational Compliance department if you have any questions regarding:

The speculative nature of your transactions. | The possibility of certain information being deemed insider information. |

- Never trade on overdraft or without sufficient funds in your personal accounts.
- Do not engage in transactions based on confidential information from customers or suppliers, or information that is sensitive to us and that you have obtained during your work.
- Should you be in possession of insider information, do not trade in securities or financial instruments influenced by said information. Do not advise others to trade based on this information and do not share it, except when doing so as part of your professional duties. In any case, this fact must be reported to the Compliance department, indicating the source from which such information was obtained.

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

What should I do if I receive insider information?

If you have accessed insider information without being on the list of authorized individuals and you are not involved in the related project, or if you have accessed the information by mistake, contact the Compliance department, unless you have received this information as part of your work and the person in charge of the project in question has authorized it. However, we recommend that you confirm your inclusion on the list of individuals with access to said information.

What is insider information?

It refers to sensitive information regarding securities or financial instruments (including their issuers) traded on a market, organized trading system, or about to be admitted to trading. For this information to be deemed insider, it has not yet been made public and, in case of data leakage, its market price could be affected.

The kind of competition we like: fair and responsible

Compete fairly in the business activities in which you participate. Encourage free competition to benefit the market, customers, and everyone with whom you maintain business or professional relationships.

Comply, at all times, with the internal competition rules applicable to each specific activity.

Report any anti-competitive practices that you may have detected when dealing with competitors. If you have any doubts or suspicions, check with the Legal or Compliance & Conduct departments. For further details, carefully read the Antitrust Policy - Competition Defense \(161607\).

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

6.2.6

Cybersecurity: how to stay safe

Cybersecurity is everyone's responsibility. Our Cybersecurity Rules Policy to protect Santander \(164820\) regulates the proper use of Information Technology systems (computers, mobile phones, email, internet access, social media, etc.).

If you engage in a professional activity involving a very specific use of our IT systems requiring special privileges (e.g., if you are a developer or system administrator), in addition to the Cybersecurity Policy, you must comply with the Cybersecurity Requirements Policy for Technical Users \(164823\).

You must avoid malicious practices or inappropriate behaviors that could lead to severe security breaches, such as the use of unauthorized software, breaches by technical users, data exfiltration, or information leakage.

Always bear in mind the five Cyber Defender principles:

1) Protect your information and equipment; 2) Exercise discretion both online and in public; 3) Keep your passwords safe; 4) Think before clicking or replying; and 5) If you suspect something, report it.

Responsible use of personal social media

While the personal use of social media is the individual's responsibility, keep in mind that your association with Santander creates reputational or cybersecurity risks – as well as other types of risks – for the Group. Therefore, we recommend that you handle your online profiles and the content you post on social media responsibly and conscientiously.

Read the Policy on the Personal Use of Social Media by Employees and follow its basic principles.

06 THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

Can I express my opinion on posts on our corporate profiles?

Of course. You can share your opinion through your own posts or by participating on ours, but you must always do so transparently, honestly, and as an individual, making sure not to disclose any confidential information, respecting intellectual property, and following the principles of the Policy on the Personal Use of Social Media by Employees.

6.2.8 How to protect our assets

Protect and look after our assets (properties, goods, estates, etc.) and do your best to prevent them from being damaged.

Use the assets properly and for the purpose they were provided to you and follow the internal control procedures we have in place for protecting them. Notably, electronic devices (mobile phones, computers, etc.) designated for professional use may be subject to inspection.

Unless you have your manager's authorization to do so, do not create or allow any liens on assets – do not sell, transfer, dispose of or pledge assets, or enter into agreements that may have a similar effect.

Do not sell, transfer or retain the assets of our property to evade liabilities to our creditors.

Financial information: reliable and transparent

This information is the responsibility of every Santander Group employee, which is why it must be processed and presented with rigor and accuracy. It refers to the accounting and financial data presented to our customers, shareholders, investors, auditors, and supervisory authorities.

When handling financial information, make sure that the data being collected exists, is complete, and complies with the applicable regulations.

Always bear in mind the internal control procedures in place and follow them.
If you detect a breach, inform your manager or report it through the Open Channel.

6.2.10

Control of individual expenses

As part of your professional activity, you may incur personal expenses, such as if you need to travel for work, if you must attend training sessions, if you have meal allowances, etc. In these instances:

- Provide proof of your expenses, in accordance with the guidelines of the Travel and Other Expenses Policy.
- If you are a manager, carefully check the expenses of your team members and make sure they are correct before authorizing or rejecting them.

Bear in mind intellectual and industrial property rights

At the Santander Group, we have intellectual property and/or usage rights regarding original works, courses, programs, IT systems, processes, technology, know-how, and, in general, they cover any work developed or created within the Group – whether derived from your professional activity or that of a third party.

Only use these resources and knowledge to perform your professional activities at the Santander Group and return all materials when we ask you to do so.

Always use the name, image and brands of the Santander Group appropriately and only do so while you are working with us.

Similarly, respect the intellectual and industrial property rights of third parties or companies. Do not use information or materials obtained during previous employment with these entities or without consent.

6.3 6.3 Your relationship with customers, suppliers, and intermediaries

6.3.1

Selling products and services

If you are involved in any stage of the development and sales process, bear in mind the internal regulations pertaining to sales and consumer protection. Our customers must be treated in an honest, impartial, transparent, and professional manner.

Develop products and services so that they meet the needs of our customers while balancing risks, costs, and profitability. Mitigate conflicts of interest.

Take advantage of the training we provide to gain knowledge, skills, and experience, which will help your customer relationships and your ability to make sales.

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

Provide information about and sell our products and services to the appropriate target market while remaining transparent and truthful throughout the entire process.

Our card portfolio, for instance, is the most comprehensive on the market. We are the only bank that offers WAY, alongside the Esfera platform, providing customers with numerous benefits. In other words, there are plenty of reasons to sell well. There is no justification, however, for an unsolicited and/or improperly formalized sale.

Handle customer requests, incidents, and complaints fairly and diligently.

When selling a product or service to a customer, remember that you are not allowed to give tax planning advice. Only provide them with the tax information that the specific product and/or service offers. Inform them that it is solely the customer's responsibility to be aware of their tax obligations regarding the products or services that they have purchased.

Include this disclaimer in the presentations or documents for the products you sell.

To learn more, refer to the Customer Conduct Risk Management Model \(164897\).

6.3.2

How to interact with suppliers and intermediaries

In our business, we interact with many people in different ways. As a responsible bank, we seek like-minded employees, suppliers, and intermediaries who promote social responsibility, ethical business practices, human rights in the workplace, and environmental sustainability. At the same time, we ensure that their activities align with our values and ethical standards.

When interacting with suppliers and intermediaries, check the Policy on Conflicts of Interest \(160634\) and follow its guidelines.

Make sure that the selection process is fair, unbiased, and impartial.

Avoid conflicts of interest. If you come across a potential conflict, contact the Compliance department.

06

THE CODE IN PRACTICE. WE ARE A BENCHMARK OF CONDUCT

6.3.3

Gifts and invitations from third parties

When performing your professional duties, do not request, accept, promise, or offer payments, commissions, gifts, compensations, invitations, loans, or financial benefits to take advantage of your position within the Group for your own personal gain.

- Merchandises may be accepted provided they respect the value stipulated in the Gift Policy (see below).
- Invitations regarded as reasonable in terms of social customs and common courtesy.
- Occasional gifts, such as Christmas or wedding gifts, provided they are not in cash and comply with the values established in the Gift Policy.
- Invitations to sporting or cultural events sponsored by us under the conditions described in the corresponding Policy.

What should I do if a customer or supplier offers me tickets to a sporting or entertainment event?

Refer to our Anti-Bribery and Corruption (ABC) Policy, in which we outline the criteria for accepting or rejecting third-party invitations. If you are still unsure, check with the Compliance department.

See the Anti-Corruption Policy \(161667\) and the Gifts, Souvenirs, and Entertainment Policy \(157078\).

When faced with situations like these, and if you are unsure whether to accept or offer a gift or invitation, check with the Compliance & Conduct department. They are there to help you.

6.4 Your relationship with society

6.4.1

We are fighting financial crime

Financial crime causes dangerous situations and brings serious harm to society, which is why we must contribute to the prevention and repression of such illegal activities.

All professionals have the obligation to avoid and not facilitate crimes, whether by providing the means or information to customers that could be misused. We also fully collaborate with authorities in all locations where we operate in the fight against financial crimes – and we all bear the responsibility to prevent, deter, and detect.

We count on your unwavering commitment to reduce the risk of our products and services being utilized in criminal activities or to facilitate them.

Within the scope of preventing financial crime, we fight against money laundering, terrorism financing, breaches of international sanctions, bribery, and corruption.

Follow the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorist Financing Corporate Framework \(160119\), its related policies and procedures:

- AML/CTF Policy - Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorist Financing (159086).
- Financial Sanctions and Countermeasures Policy (160465).
- Anti-Corruption Policy (161667).

6.4.2

Activities that affect our neutrality

We respect the right to free political association. However, you must make it clear that your participation is on a personal basis and does not involve Santander.

If you have been offered a public office and are considering accepting it, before deciding, inform your manager and check with the People and Compliance departments. It is important that we first verify that they are compatible and that it will not compromise your position in the Group.

Commitment to tax obligations

We have zero tolerance for tax evasion. All our entities fulfill their tax obligations and follow the principles outlined in our tax strategy.

Do not engage in any practice related to the illegal evasion of tax obligations in your professional activity. You must follow the Corporate Tax Policy
